IN BRIEF

Jewish Senior Life announces new program

Jewish Senior Life recently announced the expansion of its cardiopulmonary rehabilitation program with the myHeart Cardiopulmonary Rehabilitation Program, in response to an increasing need for specialized patient care following a hospital stay.

The myHeart Cardiopulmonary Rehabilitation Program will offer individualized care plans, anxiety and pain management, physical and occupational therapy, nurses trained in cardiopulmonary intervention and management strategies and patient and family education.

Cardiopulmonary rehabilitation services have been available at Transitional Care Program at the Jewish Home for over 20 years, and nearly 20 percent of patients served in 2015 received cardiopulmonary services. The myHeart Cardiopulmonary Rehabilitation Program will reside within Transitional Care at The Jewish Home.

"Our cardiopulmonary program has been a trusted resource to help people rebuild their strength and confidence following a procedure and to help bridge the gap between hospitalization and home," said Mike King, president and CEO of Jewish Senior Life,

"We named the program to give it an identity and to show our commitment to maintaining and growing our leadership in this area of care."
